Breath Analysis Summit 2007: Clinical Applications of Breath Testing

Scientific Meeting of the International Association for Breath Research (IABR)

November 1 - 3, 2007 | Cleveland, Ohio
InterContinental Hotel and Bank of America Conference Center

This Summit will be this year’s scientific meeting of the International Association for Breath Research (IABR). The meeting will be held in collaboration with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the Monell Chemical Senses Center, and the Electrochemical Society (ECS). Proceedings will be published in the newly established Journal of Breath Research (JBR).

This Summit will bring industry executives, entrepreneurs, and investors together with scientists, environmentalists, and clinicians to discuss key trends, future directions, and upcoming technologies in breath analysis and medicine.

The major focus this year will be on medical applications in addition to environmental and bioterrorism issues.

Topics to be covered will include:
- nitric oxide
- exhaled breath condensate
- electronic nose and sensor arrays
- mass spectrometry and benchtop instrumentation
- cutting edge sensor technologies

Medical applications will include:
- asthma, COPD, pulmonary hypertension, and other respiratory diseases
- gastrointestinal diseases
- occupational diseases
- critical care
- cancer
